

Responsible and caring

At IFGL, the first question that always strikes our mind is, can we manage business sustainability and still drive growth?

The answer to such a question is "yes", because we nurture the latent potential of our people and integrate meaningfully with nature. For us, these are not mutually exclusive, but are co-related.

Our Company is fully committed towards its responsibilities and is contributing effectively to facilitate value-creation in various arenas of its operations including health & safety, education, sanitation, afforestation.
